HISTORICAL SKETCH.

Central University of Kentucky, as at present constituted, dates its incorporation from 1901, and is, therefore, the youngest of Kentucky's institutions of higher learning; but its constituent parts, the Centre College and the Central University, have an honorable history reaching many years into the past.

The Centre College was chartered by the Legislature of Kentucky in the year 1819. Its first president, Rev. Jeremiah Chamberlain, D. D., was inducted into office in 1823. According to an arrangement with the Synod of the Presbyterian Church in Kentucky, the Board of Trustees procured, in the year 1824, an act of the legislature modifying the charter of the college so as to secure to the Synod, on the payment of $20,000 into the treasury of the institution, the right to appoint the Board of Trustees. The condition thus imposed upon the Synod was fulfilled in 1830, and since that time all the members of the board have been appointed by the Synod as their terms of office expired, one-third of the board being appointed every year.

Dr. Chamberlain resigned the presidency in 1826, and Rev. Gideon Blackburn, D. D., succeeded him in 1828; in the interval the office had been temporarily filled by Rev. David C. Proctor. On the resignation of Dr. Blackburn in 1830, Rev. John C. Young, D. D., was elected president. Dr. Young died in office June 23, 1857, and on the 6th of August following, Rev.

Lewis W. Green, D. D., was elected his successor, and entered upon his duties January 1, 1858. Dr. Green died in office, May 26, 1863, and on the 16th of October following, Rev. William L. Breckinridge, D. D., was elected president. On the 29th of the same month he accepted the position, and entered at once upon its duties. These he continued to discharge until his resignation October 16, 1868. Prof. Ormond Beatty, LL. D., being at the time vice-president, was requested to act as president until a successor to Dr. Breckinridge should be chosen. He continued to do so until the Board of Trustees elected him president September 1, 1870. Dr. Beatty tendered his resignation to the board November 30, 1886, and it was accepted, "to take effect upon the qualification of his successor." Rev. William C. Young, D. D., son of the distinguished former president, Dr. John C. Young, was elected president June 18, 1888, and Dr. Beatty was formally released from his official duties. Dr. Young entered upon his office September 5, 1888; his death occurred September 16, 1896. June 7, 1898, after an interval during which the duties of president were discharged by Prof. John C. Fales, LL. D., Dean of the College, Rev. William Charles Roberts, D. D., LL. D., was unanimously elected president. He took up the duties of the office immediately and remained president of the Centre College and of the new Central University until his death from bulbar paralysis, which occurred November 27, 1903. Gal. 38 1306

On April 15th, 1904, Rev. Frederick W. Hinitt, PH. D., D. D., then at the head of Parsons College, Fairfield, Iowa, was unanimously chosen to fill the vacant presidency.

The Centre College is one of the oldest institutions of higher education in Kentucky, or in the South or West, having graduated its first class as early as 1824. It has prosecuted its work successfully, and without interruption, from that day to the present. Not a year has passed in which it has not sent out graduates, until the entire body of its alumni numbers at this time nearly 1,600. In addition to these, 2,600 students have taken a partial course, but have not received diplomas. Among the alumni are 360 lawyers, about 240 ministers, and more than 100 physicians, besides a great number of teachers; the other graduates have entered the various business callings. An unusual proportion of these men have distinguished themselves in their respective professions and occupations, and have attained to the highest positions of honor and trust throughout the South and West, where most of them have had their homes.

The Centre College has educated twenty-five college presidents, forty-six college professors, twenty-five representatives in Congress, five United States Senators, nine Governors of States, two Vice Presidents of the United States, one Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, thirty-nine circuit judges (state or national), six moderators of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, and fifty editors. No institution in Kentucky has sent out, year by year, larger classes of well-trained young men.

The other constituent part of the institution, known as the Central University, was organized under a charter granted by the legislature of Kentucky, March 3, 1873, providing for the establishment of an institution of the highest order, on the university plan, under the auspices of the Southern Synod of Kentucky. The College of Philosophy, Letters and Science at Richmond, and the Hospital College of Medicine at Louisville, were opened for students in September, 1874. The Louisville College of Dentistry was organized and opened at Louisville, January, 1888, and the College of Law at Richmond, October, 1898.

The charter gave authority to the curators, "to establish, under the auspices of the University, six preparatory schools, in various parts of the state, designed to prepare students to enter the University." Three of these schools were put in successful operation; viz., the Richmond Preparatory School, the Lees Collegiate Institute, Jackson, Ky., and the Hardin Collegiate Institute, Elizabethtown, Ky.

The charter also provided for the establishment of a Theological Department in connection with the University; and, on the recommendation of the Synod, a special endowment was raised, and the department was opened in September, 1891, under the direction of Rev. T. D. Witherspoon, D. D., LL. D. At the end of two years the Synods of Kentucky and Missouri united in a movement to establish a Theological Seminary for the Southwest at Louisville, and the endowment fund of the department was transferred to the Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary, with which the Danville Theological Seminary has recently been consolidated.

The government of the University was vested in a Chancellor, as chief executive officer, and a Board of Curators, elected at first by the Alumni Association, but afterward by the Synod of Kentucky. Rev. Robert L. Breck, D. D., was the first chancellor, and Rev.

John W. Pratt, D. D., the first president of the faculty. In June, 1880, Doctors Breck and Pratt resigned, and the University was practically reorganized. Rev. L. H. Blanton, D. D., was elected chancellor, and Rev. J. V. Logan, D. D., president of the faculty, and both continued in office until the consolidation of the institution with the Centre College.

The Central University was the youngest, by many years, of the Kentucky colleges, and was in competition from the beginning with older and more richly endowed institutions. Great liberality and zeal were shown by its friends and patrons in its establishment and in its maintenance for twenty-seven years. Among the many generous donors to its funds may be mentioned S. P. Walters, A. J. Alexander, Orville Ford, Stuart Robinson, D. D., Hon. W. H. McBrayer, J. V. Logan, D. D., D. C. Collins, T. A. Bracken, D. D., and Col. Bennett H. Young.

The first class, consisting of nine members, was graduated from the Central University in 1877; and for twenty-four years it sent out classes varying from six to twenty-eight well-trained young men, the last three or four classes being the largest in the history of the institution. It sent forth in all about 300 graduates, besides many others who hold certificates of proficiency in separate departments of study. These young men are found in all the walks of life. The Central University gave to Kentucky her present Chief Executive, and many others who occupy positions of honor and trust. It gave to the church about forty ministers of the gospel, who are among its ablest and most useful pastors.

The College of Medicine graduated 900 Doctors of Medicine. The College of Dentistry graduated 406 Doctors of Dental Surgery, and the College of Law, 15 Bachelors of Law. During the twenty-seven years of its separate existence, over 8,000 students received their education, in whole or in part, in connection with the University's four colleges and three university schools. The aggregate matriculation in the last year before the consolidation was eleven hundred and sixty-four.

The two institutions described above were legally consolidated in August, 1901, under the corporate name of "Central University of Kentucky," the seat of which was fixed at Danville, Boyle county. No better location could have been selected for a great institution of learning. Danville is an ideal college town, healthy, beautiful, and free from most of the temptations to youth found in other places of its size. The campus embraces forty-three and a third acres of blue-grass, covered with a large variety of fine trees. The buildings are substantial and commodious, and are connected by hundreds of yards of superb concrete walks and a macadamized carriage road. There are two spacious and comfortable dormitories, College Home and Breckinridge Hall, a library, a gymnasium, and all the equipment of a modern university.

As at present constituted, Central University is governed by a Board of Trustees composed of twenty-four members, one-half appointed by each of the two Presbyterian Synods of Kentucky, North and South. It comprises the Centre College, as the classical, scientific and literary department; the Danville College of Law, as the law department; the Hospital College of Medicine, in Louisville, as the medical department; and the Louisville College of Dentistry, as the dental department.

There are also three excellent affiliated schools or Collegiate Institutes, located at Danville, Jackson and Elizabethtown, which serve as fitting-schools for the University; another such school, tributary to the University, though not directly under its management, is situated at Princeton.

These elements constitute one of the most complete and efficient universities in the South.

All the studies in the various departments of the University and in the affiliated schools are taught by professors, lecturers and instructors who are largely specialists, and are all thoroughly competent for their respective duties.

MAIN BUILDING

COURSES OF STUDY.

On entering college the student selects one of the four courses described below as A, B, C and D. Four years are required for the completion of any one of these courses. Course A leads to the degree of Bachelor of Arts (A. B.); Courses B, C and D, to the degree of Bachelor of Science (B. S.).

In each course the studies of Freshman and Sophomore years are all prescribed, while in the Junior and Senior years some are prescribed and some elective. All the courses have a large proportion of studies in common, but they differ from the start; it is, therefore, essential that the student have a thorough understanding of the requirements of each, and that he consult with the Faculty's Committee on Admission before deciding which course he will take.

Course A.—Classical—Bachelor of Arts.

During the first two years the time is devoted to required courses in Latin, Greek, English and Mathematics. In the last two years the work is divided between required courses in philosophical and scientific subjects and elective courses in ancient and modern languages, mental and moral philosophy, history, literature, and the sciences.

Course B.—Latin-Scientific.—Bachelor of Science.

This course is the same as Course A, except that work in science or German takes the place of Greek in Freshman and Sophomore years.

Course C.—Chemical-Biological.—Bachelor of Science.

In this course three years each of Chemistry, Biology, and English, and two years each of Physics, French, German, and Mathematics are required. Students intending to enter the medical or dental professions can, by taking this course, anticipate a number of the studies of the first two years of their professional course.

Course D.—Physical-Mathematical.—Bachelor of Science.

In this course Mathematics is required throughout, Physics and English each three years, Chemistry and French or German, each two years. This course is arranged to meet the needs of those students intending to enter an engineering profession or to engage in manufacturing pursuits, as well as for those who have special aptitudes for physical and mathematical studies.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Course A.—Classical.

Candidates for the Freshman class in this course, who do not bring certificates from accredited preparatory schools, will be examined in the following subjects, or their equivalents:

ENGLISH.—Grammar, Composition, and Literature; the equivalent of the course given in the Academy. (See p. 156.)

NOTE.—Every applicant for admission, without regard to the school from which he comes, is required to write a brief composition on an assigned subject; its purpose is to show the proficiency of the candidate in spelling, punctuation, the structure of sentences and paragraphs, and other essential elements of the correct use of the mother-tongue. Candidates found notably deficient in these respects will be required to do special work in the Academy.

LATIN.—Cæsar's Commentaries, three books; Virgil's Æneid, two books; Latin grammar, etymology and syntax.

GREEK.—Xenophon's Anabasis, two books; some knowledge of the Attic inflections and of the principles of syntax, with experience in translating English into Greek, including accent, is demanded.

MATHEMATICS.—The whole of arithmetic; algebra, through quadratic equations; plane geometry, two books.

HISTORY.—United States history.

Course B.—Latin-Scientific.

The entrance requirements in this course are the same as in the Classical Course, except that additional Mathematics or French or German may be offered instead of Greek.

Course C.—Chemical-Biological.

The requirements in this course are the same as in the Latin-Scientific Course.

Course D.—Physical-Mathematical.

The requirements in English are the same as in the other courses. In Mathematics advanced algebra and plane and solid geometry are required in addition to the Mathematics for Course A. To meet additional requirements Latin, Greek, French or German may be offered.

Advanced Standing.

Candidates for the higher classes must stand an examination on all the studies previously pursued by the class they desire to enter. Certificates from colleges of equal standing are accepted.

In all cases a student from another college is required to present satisfactory testimonials of his moral character and standing in the college which he last attended. To avoid delay the student should bring with him properly signed certificates attesting in detail the amount of work done.

Physics and Chemistry.

Students from schools having proper equipment for laboratory work in Physics and Chemistry may receive credit for elementary work in those subjects upon presenting satisfactory evidence that they are qualified to undertake the more advanced work. Applicants will be required to present their original notes of all laboratory work done, together with the annotations and certificate of the instructor, who should insist on careful manipulation and correct annotations, rather than on numerous experiments.

Special Students.

Students desiring to pursue the study of special branches are permitted to enter any class for which they are prepared, subject to the direction of the Faculty in the number of hours of work required.

Admission Without Examination.

All candidates for admission are regularly required to pass entrance examinations; but students from certain schools of recognized good standing, if certified to have completed a course of study which can be accepted as equivalent to the entrance requirements, and to have passed satisfactory examinations upon the same, will be admitted into the Freshman class on trial without examination.

This privilege has been granted to the following schools:

The Centre College Academy, Danville, Ky.

The Lees Collegiate Institute, Jackson, Ky.

The Hardin Collegiate Institute, Elizabethtown, Ky.

The Princeton Collegiate Institute, Princeton, Ky.

The Louisville Male High School, Louisville, Ky.

The Manual Training High School, Louisville, Ky.

BOARD OF ADVISERS.

A Board of Advisers has been appointed from the Faculty, to have supervision of the work of each individual student, whether regular or special. Each student, upon admission to the College, or to any of its courses, is assigned to his proper adviser by the Faculty's Committee on Admission, and the adviser arranges his course of study.

Advisers.

PROFESSOR CHEEK, Latin-Scientific Course.

PROFESSOR PALMER, Chemical-Biological Course.

PROFESSOR CROOKS, Freshmen.

Each adviser endeavors to establish relations of friendliness and confidence with the students in his care, and to promote their welfare in every practicable way.

DEPARTMENTS OF INSTRUCTION.

I. BIBLICAL STUDIES.

PRESIDENT HINITT.

Central University being a Christian institution, and endowed by Christian men and women, strongly emphasizes the importance of Bible study, but it is in no sense denominational, much less sectarian. The Bible is accepted as man's spiritual guide, and the instruction given is based on a fair interpretation of the language as we have it.

SENIOR CLASS.

1. The Bible. The course, which is required of all Seniors, is given during the Winter and Spring terms. The Book of Genesis. One hour a week.

II. ETHICS.

PRESIDENT HINITT AND PROFESSOR LOGAN.

FRESHMAN CLASS.

1. Practical Ethics. This course is given during the Fall term, the text-book being supplemented by lectures. The object in introducing this advanced study so early into the curriculum is to bring all the entering students into personal relation with the President, and to furnish them with a correct code of morals for their college career, as well as for after life. One hour a week.

Text: Gregory's Christian Ethics.

SENIOR CLASS.

2. Theoretical Ethics. This course, devoted to the study of the principles of Ethics, comes during the Winter and Spring terms, and occupies three hours a week. Professor Logan.

Text: Dabney's Practical Philosophy.

III. PHILOSOPHY.

PROFESSOR LOGAN.

JUNIOR CLASS.

1. Psychology. During the Fall term an elementary course is given, preparatory to the study of Logic, Psychology, and the principles of Ethics. Three hours a week.

Text: Hill's Elements of Psychology.

2. Logic. The Winter and Spring terms are devoted to the study of Logic; the first being occupied with the problems, principles, and rules of Deductive Logic; the second with the principles and processes of the Scientific Method of Inductive Logic. Three hours a week.

Texts: Welton's Manual of Logic, Vols. I and II.

SENIOR CLASS.

3. Christian Evidences. During the Fall term the philosophy of Christian Evidences is studied, the course occupying three hours a week.

Texts: Butler's Analogy.

4. Psychology. In this course, running through the year, Psychology is taught as an inductive science. Facts furnish the material and the tests of doctrine. The student is taught to try the validity of theory by appeal to his personal consciousness. The different powers and processes of knowledge are distinguished by their objects, their relations, their laws, and their products; and the trustworthiness of the various processes and products of the mind's cognitive activities is explained. Special prominence is given to the intuitions, and much pains is taken to explain and enforce the logical and ethical importance of a sound metaphysic. The validity of human knowledge as resting on the necessary principles of the reason; the reality of human knowledge, both of the natural and the spiritual, as the datum of the consciousness of knowing, and as opposed to all agnostic theory, are carefully considered. Man's real knowledge of himself and of the universe of things is shown to have its end, and to be completed in his knowledge of God, thus leading the thought through nature to nature's God, and exhibiting the theistic conception of the world as the only rational, scientific system.

Text: Harris' Philosophical Basis of Theism.

IV. ECONOMICS AND POLITICAL SCIENCE.

PROFESSOR THROCKMORTON.

Three hours a week in Economics and Political Science are required throughout the Senior year of all students in Courses A, B and C. A statement of the course in detail is given below:

SENIOR CLASS.

1. Economics. The subject of Economics is first studied as a science, the fundamental principles of which are developed, after which special study is devoted to the application of a number of the leading principles thus evolved. Each student is required to prepare an essay on some economic question; certain of these are selected to be read in class as the basis of a general discussion. Three hours a week during the Fall term.

Text: Walker's Political Economy.

2. Constitutional Government. The governmental structure of Ancient Greece and Rome, that of the Modern Continental States, and especially the history and operation of the English government are here studied. Three hours a week during the Winter term.

Text: Woodrow Wilson's The State.

3. American Constitutional Law. This course embraces a thorough study of the Federal Constitution, and the functions of the several departments of the Government, with supplementary lectures on the state constitutions and government. Three hours a week during the Spring term.

Texts: Cooley's Constitutional Law, Woodrow Wilson's The State.

GRADUATE COURSE.

4. Applied Economics. This is a seminar course, dealing with the most important practical questions in economics. The present session has been devoted to a study of the Tariff, the "Trusts," and the Labor Problem.

Texts: Taussig's History of the Tariff, Jenks's The Trust Problem.

V. HISTORY.

PROFESSOR THROCKMORTON.

Elective courses in History, occupying three hours a week throughout the session, are offered to the Junior and Senior classes. The courses alternate every other year, thus enabling the student to enjoy the benefit of two full years of historical study. A detailed statement is given below:

JUNIOR AND SENIOR ELECTIVE.

1. Mediæval History. In this course is included a general outline of European history from the invasions of the barbarians to the dawn of the Protestant Reformation, with particular attention to the Holy Roman Empire, the Papacy, the Crusades, the Revival of Learning, and the Italian Renaissance. Three hours a week. This course is given during the Fall term, 1902, and every second year thereafter, alternating with Course 4.

Text: Thatcher and Schwill's Europe in the Middle Age.

2. English History to the Reign of Elizabeth. In this course the text is used simply as a basis for the work being supplemented by lectures, and by research work and essays which are required of the students. Three hours a week. This is given during the Winter term of 1903, and alternates with Course 5.

MATHEMATICAL DRAWING ROOM.

Text: Oman's History of England.

3. History of American Politics. The object here is to acquaint the student with the history of American political parties, and of the principal questions which have agitated the public mind since the formation of the Union. This course is given during the Spring term of 1903, and alternates with Course 6.

Text: Johnston's History of American Politics.

4. Modern European History. Taking up the thread of European History at the beginning of the sixteenth century, special attention is devoted to the Protestant Reformation, the French Revolution, and the Rise of the Modern European States. Three hours a week. Given in the Fall term, 1903, and alternating with Course 1.

Text: Schwill's History of Modern Europe.

5. English History from Elizabeth to Victoria. In this course special attention is given to the constitutional struggles of the English people with the Stuart kings in the seventeenth century, to the social changes of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, and to the expansion of England from an island kingdom to a world-encircling empire. Lectures and essays. Three hours a week. Given in the Winter term, 1904, and alternating with Course 2.

Text: Oman's History of England.

6. American History to the Adoption of the Federal Constitution. In this course the period of discovery and exploration is passed over rapidly, the chief characteristics of the respective colonies are emphasized, and special attention is devoted to the causes of separation from the mother country, and to the efforts at union, consummated by the adoption of the Federal Constitution in 1789. Three hours a week. Given in the Spring term, 1904, and alternating with Course 3.

Texts: Thwaites's The Colonies; Hart's Formation of the Union.

GRADUATE COURSE.

This is a seminar course in European and American history, open only to graduate students. The course during the present session has been devoted to a study of the social and religious phases of European history. Lectures, selected readings and essays.

VI. GEOLOGY AND BIOLOGY.

PROFESSOR FALES.

In the department of natural sciences the instruction is by text-book, supplemented by lectures and laboratory work. The text-books themselves will vary from time to time as may best suit the character of the work to be done, but those given below will fairly represent the work of the current year. The courses of the Freshman and Sophomore years are elective for all candidates for the B. S. degree.

FRESHMAN CLASS.

1. Physiology. Fall term. Four hours a week.

Text: Martin's The Human Body.

2. Botany. Winter and Spring terms. Four hours a week.

Text: Britton and Brown's Botany.

SOPHOMORE CLASS.

3. Zoology. Required course covering the Fall term and part of the Winter term. Four hours a week.

Text: Hertwig's General Principles of Zoology.

4. Physiography. Required course beginning at the close of Course 3, and running to the end of the college year. Four hours a week.

JUNIOR CLASS.

5. Geology. An elective course given during the Winter and Spring terms. The general principles will be taught, and their application to the history and formation of the earth's structure brought out. Particular attention will be given to the geology of the Ohio Valley, for illustrations of which ample material is at hand in the work-rooms. Four hours a week.

Text: Le Conte's Geology.

6. Biology, This course is elective, and runs throughout the year. It is open to those who have taken Courses 2 and 3.

VII. PHYSICS.

PROFESSOR GORDON AND MR. SNYDER.

The physical lecture room and an adjoining room for apparatus are situated on the first floor of the main college building, while four rooms in the basement of the same building are used for laboratory instruction.

The department possesses a good equipment for both lecture and laboratory purposes. A commodious dark room furnishes ample opportunity for photographic and photometric work. In addition to the electrical equipment usually contained in physical laboratories for experimentation with battery currents, one room is fitted up with dynamos and motors for direct and alternating currents, transformers, electric lamps, telephones, and measuring and testing instruments, such as are actually used in electric light and power plants. There is also a gas engine to furnish power. Students in their third year in Physics are thus enabled to study the management of an electric plant in a practical manner. During the past year lathes and machine tools have been installed for shop work.

1. General Physics. This course is required of Sophomores in Courses C and D, and of Juniors in Courses A and B. The instruction is given by means of lectures with demonstrations, recitations on lessons assigned in the text-book, and individual laboratory work. The latter occupies about one-third of the periods assigned—two hours of work in the laboratory taking the place of one recitation hour. Mechanics, sound, light, heat, and electricity and magnetism are studied. The aim of this course is to give the student a thorough and experimental knowledge of the most important and fundamental facts, principles and applications of the subject. Three hours a week throughout the year. A laboratory fee of five dollars is charged.

Text: Gage's Principles of Physics.

2. Electricity and Magnetism. This course is required of Juniors in Courses C and D, and is elective for Seniors in Courses A and B. One recitation and two laboratory periods a week. Careful and detailed accounts of the theory of each problem assigned, as well as the work done thereon, are required to be written in note books. For the benefit of those intending to study medicine or dentistry, practice with most of the electrical and optical instruments used in these professions, including work with the Rœntgen-Ray apparatus, will be given. This course must be preceded by Physics 1. A laboratory fee of ten dollars is charged.

Texts: Ames and Bliss; Stewart and Gee; Carhart and Patterson; Thompson's Electricity and Magnetism.

3. Applied Electricity. This course (or Physics 4 and 5) is required of Seniors in Course D, and is elective for Seniors in Course C and for graduates. A theoretical and experimental study of electricity as applied to light and power. Lectures and recitations are given on alternating currents and electrodynamic machinery, and practical work on the management and testing of dynamos, motors, electric lights and telephones. Physics 1 and 2 must precede this course. Three hours a week throughout the year. A laboratory fee of ten dollars is charged.

4. Physical Chemistry. This course is elective for Seniors in Courses C and D, and for graduates. The lectures and recitations are on the molecular, atomic and ionic theories, thermochemistry, and electrochemistry. The laboratory work consists of the measurement of molecular weights by the vapor-pressure, boiling-point and freezing-point methods, the heat and velocity of chemical reactions, the conductivity of solutions, and the electromotive forces of typical cells. This course must be preceded by Chemistry 1 and 2, and Physics 1 and 2. Three times a week from September until February. A laboratory fee of four dollars is charged.

5. Mathematical Physics. This course is elective for Seniors in Courses C and D, and for graduates. It consists of a study of the applications of mathematical analysis to problems in the several branches of Physics. It must be preceded by Physics 1 and 2, and Mathematics 1, 2 and 3. Three hours a week from February until June.

Text: Christiansen's Theoretical Physics (Magie's translation.)

6. Research. For graduates. Students who have shown special ability in physics and have had the requisite preliminary courses are directed and aided in the investigation of original problems in electricity and electrochemistry. Candidates for the degree of Master of Arts or Master of Science may devote all their time to this course or may take it at the same time with other courses in physics or other subjects.

VIII. CHEMISTRY.

PROFESSOR PALMER, MR. BRIGHT AND MR. LANE.

The full collegiate course in Chemistry covers a period of three years, and is distributed as follows:

1. GENERAL CHEMISTRY, one-half year.
2. INORGANIC CHEMISTRY, one-half year.
3. ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY, one year.
4. ORGANIC AND SANITARY CHEMISTRY, one year.

The laboratories, which are of modern equipment, accommodate fifty students at work. The department has been recently supplied with a new laboratory specially arranged for sanitary examinations of water and of food products.

Laboratory fees are charged to cover the cost of gas and chemicals. All fees are payable in advance. At the beginning of any course each student is required to deposit with the director of the laboratory, in addition to the laboratory fee, two dollars to pay for apparatus which may be broken or impaired. At the end of the course the amount of such injury will be charged against this deposit and the balance will be returned to the student.

1. General Chemistry is required of all candidates for a degree. The course begins in September and continues until February. It is open in Sophomore year to students in Courses C and D; to other students in their Junior year.

Instruction is given by illustrated lectures, laboratory work, and recitations. The fundamental principles of the science of chemistry are presented, the work being confined chiefly to an elementary study of the non-metals and their compounds.

Three hours a week. Laboratory fee five dollars.

2. Inorganic Chemistry begins in February and extends to the end of the collegiate year. This course is required in Sophomore year of all students in Courses C and D; for other students it is alternative with Geology in the Junior year. To be eligible to the course in Inorganic Chemistry, one must have satisfied the requirements of the preceding course in General Chemistry.

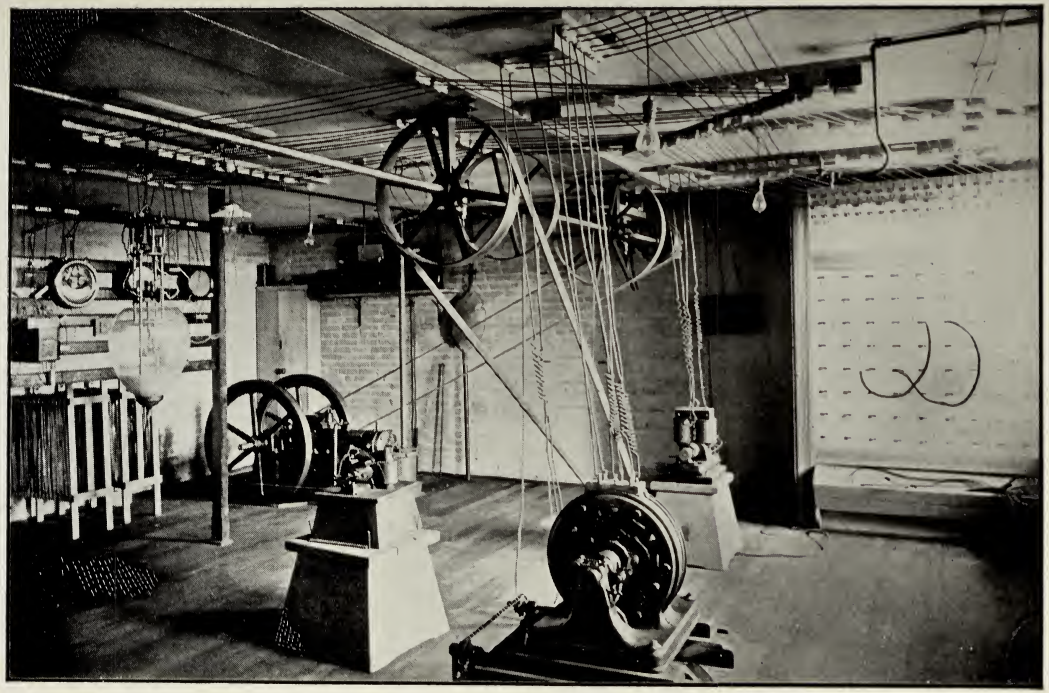
In the laboratory, practical acquaintance with the more important metals is obtained. The properties of their compounds are studied with special reference to the separation and identification of the elements in analysis.

Several compounds are prepared in pure condition from ores and crude materials.

The more important chemical and metallurgical processes are presented by lectures and recitations, and the general laws and theories pertaining to the constitution of chemical compounds and their changes are also studied.

Three hours a week. Laboratory fee five dollars.

3. Analytical Chemistry is required of all students in Courses C and D during the whole of Junior year; for others it is an elective study. The work prescribed in Chemistry 1 and 2, and Physics 1, is pre-requisite.



ELECTRICAL LABORATORY

Analytical Chemistry is essentially a laboratory course, and every student receives personal instruction at his laboratory desk. In the lecture room general directions are given concerning laboratory practice, and stoichiometric problems are assigned for solution. Qualitative Analysis is studied first, and when a student furnishes satisfactory evidence that he is able to make a complete qualitative analysis of ordinary commercial products and minerals, he is promoted to the laboratory for quantitative analysis.

The laboratory is supplied with sensitive balances and other apparatus necessary for obtaining accurate results by gravimetric methods. Special attention is given to the methods of volumetric analysis, and practice is obtained in the graduation and calibration of measuring apparatus.

Three hours a week. Laboratory fee ten dollars.

4. Organic and Sanitary Chemistry. This course is required in Senior year of all students in Course C. College graduates and other students who have satisfactorily completed the work of the preceding courses in Chemistry, together with Physics 1 and 2, may elect this subject.

Lectures on Organic Chemistry are delivered, treating of the various classes of organic compounds, their formation, composition, and properties, and of the modern theories of the structure of molecules.

In the laboratory, practice is given in ultimate analysis, and a number of typical compounds of carbon are prepared.

In Sanitary Chemistry, practical methods of the analysis of food, air and water are learned in the laboratory, and the student is taught to determine the characteristics of pure and polluted water.

Problems concerning the public health are brought to his attention, and he receives instruction in approved methods of disposing of sewage and of purifying water for public use.

Three hours a week. Laboratory fee ten dollars.

5. Research. A supplementary course in chemical research is offered to college graduates possessing the requisite skill and knowledge of Chemistry to derive profit from original investigation.

Candidates for the degrees of Master of Arts and Master of Science will receive instruction and guidance in some research, e. g., a critical study of various methods of analysis; an investigation of sanitary problems involving chemical questions, or some problem in pure chemistry.

Opportunity of consulting original articles bearing on the subjects assigned will be afforded, in order that the student may familiarize himself with chemical literature. To this end ability to read German and French is essential.

IX. MATHEMATICS AND ASTRONOMY.

PROFESSOR CROOKS, PROFESSOR NELSON AND MR. FLEECE.

The required work in Mathematics, except in Course D, is limited to the Freshman and Sophomore years, but all the courses of the department are open to any student who is prepared to take them and who wishes to prosecute his mathematical studies beyond the work required for his degree. The Junior and Senior courses are arranged with special reference to the needs of those students who expect to enter an engineering profession, but care is taken to make the work such as to meet the wants of the general student as well, and to serve as an adequate introduction to more advanced work in the case of those students who may wish to specialize in mathematics.

The supply of engineering and astronomical instruments belonging to the department has been considerably increased of late, and contains transits, levels, compasses, sextants, a six-inch telescope, and other valuable instruments. A commodious drawing-room, admirably lighted, and equipped with desks of the most approved pattern, was opened in the fall of the present year.

It is very important that the work of preparation for admission into any of the classes be thoroughly done and that the student know his mathematics at the time of entrance, since the work of each class involves all previous work and leaves little time for making up deficiencies. It is, therefore, suggested that the work required for admission be reviewed as short a time as possible previous to entrance.

FRESHMAN CLASS.

1. Advanced Algebra, Plane and Solid Geometry. Four hours a week. Professor Crooks and Mr. Fleece.

Texts: Wells's College Algebra; Wentworth's Geometry.

2. Drawing. Six hours a week. Professor Nelson.

SOPHOMORE CLASS.

3. Plane and Spherical Trigonometry. Analytic Geometry. Four hours a week. Professor Crooks and Professor Nelson.

Texts: Bowser's Trigonometry; Tanner and Allen's Analytic Geometry.

4. Drawing. Two hours a week. Professor Nelson.

Text: Low's Machine Drawing and Design.

JUNIOR CLASS.

5. Differential and Integral Calculus. Three hours a week. Professor Crooks and Professor Nelson.

Text: Osborne's Differential and Integral Calculus.

6. Descriptive Geometry and Machine Drawing. Three hours a week. Professor Nelson.

Text: Faunce's Descriptive Geometry.

SENIOR CLASS.

7. Analytic Mechanics. Three hours a week. Professor Nelson.

Text: Bowser's Analytic Mechanics.

8. Astronomy and Surveying. Astronomy first half year, three hours a week; Surveying second half year, three hours a week, with necessary field-work. Professor Nelson.

Texts: Young's Manual of Astronomy; Raymond's Surveying.

X. GREEK.

PROFESSOR REDD.

In this department the object is to acquire such a knowledge of the language as is essential to a liberal classical education. Stress is placed not only upon a careful study of the Greek language, its forms and syntax, but also upon the ancient Greek literature, its unity and originality, and the development, relationship and characteristics of its successive periods. Written examinations on Greek History and other subjects connected with Greek life are held each month. The courses of the Freshman and Sophomore years are required of each candidate for the A. B. degree.

FRESHMAN CLASS.

1. The grammar is carefully reviewed, and the general principles of syntax are applied to class reading. Weekly exercises in translation from English into Greek, and monthly examinations in history throughout the year. Four hours a week.

Texts: Goodwin's Greek Grammar; Xenophon and Lysias; Smith's History of Greece; Hogue's Irregular Verbs.

SOPHOMORE CLASS.

2. An accurate knowledge of the Attic inflection and experience in translating Attic prose are necessary for entrance into this class. The syntax is studied with careful analysis of the text read. Greek prose composition and the study of history are continued. Four hours a week.

Texts: Goodwin's Greek Grammar; Plato, Herodotus, and Homer; Seymour's Language and Verse of Homer; Jebb's Introduction to Homer; Smith's History of Greece.

JUNIOR CLASS.

3. The preceding courses or an equivalent are necessary for entrance into this class. Study is directed specially to the syntax of the moods and tenses, history, literature, and metres; weekly exercises in translation from English into Greek. Three hours a week.

Texts: Goodwin's Greek Moods and Tenses; Demosthenes, Euripides and Sophocles; Jebb's Primer of Greek Literature; Gow's Companion to School Classics; Veitch's Greek Verbs.

SENIOR CLASS.

4. The completion of Courses 1, 2 and 3, or an equivalent, is required for entrance into this class. The syntax of moods and tenses is continued; weekly exercises based upon Greek models; history, literature, and metres; choral scanning; the history and derivation of words. Three hours a week.

Texts: Goodwin's Greek Moods and Tenses; Thucydides, Æschylus, and Aristophanes; Mahaffy's History of Classical Greek Literature. Liddell and Scott's Lexicon (unabridged, seventh edition) is recommended especially for Junior and Senior classes.

5. New Testament Greek. This course is offered specially to the students who expect to prosecute the study further at our theological seminaries. Three hours a week.

XI. LATIN.

PROFESSOR CHEEK.

The required work in this department extends through the Freshman and Sophomore years. This embraces the translation of selected portions from the representative authors of the several periods of Latin literature, the study of the geography and the mythology involved in the passages under consideration, the application of the rules of Latin syntax, a review of Latin grammar with lectures on moods and tenses, weekly practice in Latin prose composition, and monthly examinations in Roman History.

An elective course is offered during the Junior year. In addition to the translation in class of selected authors, a large amount of parallel reading is assigned, upon which the student is periodically examined. Special attention is paid to the mythology and literary history of the Romans.

FRESHMAN CLASS.

1. This class is required to read specimens from the Orations of Cicero; Cicero's De Amicitia or De Senectute; and selections from Horace. There is also daily drill in the etymology of Latin grammar, weekly exercises in Latin prose composition with lectures on moods and tenses, and monthly examinations on Roman History. Four hours a week.

Texts: Greenough's Cicero; Johnson's De Amicitia; Rockwood's De Senectute; Greenough's Horace; Smith's History of Rome; Allen and Greenough's Latin Grammar; Johnson's Classical Atlas.

SOPHOMORE CLASS.

2. This class reads specimens from the writings of Livy, Tacitus and Terence. There are also daily recitations upon the syntax of Latin Grammar, weekly exercises in Latin prose composition, and monthly examinations on Roman History. Four hours a week.

Texts: Greenough's Livy; Hopkins' Tacitus; West's Terence; Smith's History of Rome; Allen and Greenough's Latin Grammar; Johnson's Classical Atlas.

JUNIOR CLASS.

3. This year's work in Latin is elective. The class reads parts of the Annals of Tacitus; Satires of Juvenal; Comedies of Plautus. Parallel readings will be assigned for outside work. Monthly examinations will be held on mythology and Latin literature. Three hours a week.

Texts: Allen's Annals of Tacitus; Hardy's Juvenal; Fowler's Plautus; Gayley's The Classic Myths in English Literature; Crutwell's Roman Literature.

XII. ENGLISH.

PROFESSOR CHASE AND MR. CRAIN.

The aim of the work in English is three-fold: first, to stimulate the student to clear and forceful thinking; second, to train him in correct and effective expression; third, to make him acquainted with some of the masterpieces of English literature, and to help him to appreciate them and to love their authors. In recognition of the fundamental value and importance of the subject, English has been made a required study throughout the first three years in all courses. For Seniors it is elective.

During the past year the resources of the English department have been increased by the equipment of the lecture-room with valuable maps and charts, and by the opening of a reading-room supplied with the most important reference-books, which are thus made accessible to the students of English during a number of hours each day.

FRESHMAN CLASS.

1. Grammar, Rhetoric, and Composition. Baskervill and Sewell's English Grammar, with special emphasis on syntax and idioms. Lewis's First Book in Writing English. Weekly themes on assigned subjects, corrected and discussed in frequent conferences between the instructor and the individual students. Two hours a week.

2. Literature. Reading and criticism, with study of the authors' lives. The object of this course is to teach students to read carefully and thoughtfully, and to help them to see the author's personality in his work. In addition to the books studied in class, outside reading is required, with class-room reports. Two hours a week.

Texts (in 1903-1904) : Hawthorne's The House of the Seven Gables; Irving's Sketch Book; Poets of the South (edited by Painter); Longfellow's Tales of a Wayside Inn. Outside reading: Poe's Tales; Emerson's Self-Reliance and The American Scholar.

SOPHOMORE CLASS.

3. Rhetoric and Composition. Herrick and Damon's Composition and Rhetoric. Weekly themes, with conferences; the best productions are published in the Central University Cento. One hour a week.

4. Literature. Reading and criticism. An attempt is made, through inductive study of the first principles of literary art, to help the student to judge intelligently and independently of the excellences of various types of composition, and to aim at those excellences in his own work. Three hours a week.

Texts (1903-1904): Macaulay's Essay on Warren Hastings; Lamb's Essays of Elia; De Quincey's Confessions of an English Opium Eater; Burke's Speech on Conciliation with America, and five plays of Shakespeare.

JUNIOR CLASS.

5. Literature. Milton, Tennyson and Browning. In the work of this year, the student is made acquainted with the masterpieces of three of England's greatest poets, to the end of helping him toward an understanding of the elements of poetic art, and to the appreciation of poetic beauty.

Fall term, Milton: Paradise Lost, Minor Poems, Samson Agonistes. Winter term, Tennyson: Rapid reading of a wide selection from his poems, including all the greater works. Spring term, Browning: Critical study of characteristic poems, with a view to the intelligent comprehension of the poet's spirit and the technique of his art. Three hours a week; required of students in Courses A, B and C.

6. Higher Composition. A practical course, intended specially for those pursuing scientific or professional studies. It aims to train students to think clearly and to express themselves effectively along the lines of their chosen work. This course is specially commended to students in the College of Law who feel the need of practice in writing. The work is based on Carpenter's Elements of Rhetoric, but is conducted largely by conferences with the individual students. One hour a week; required of students in Course D, who are excused from taking English 5.

Every member of the Junior class is required to write an oration during the year.

Senior Class.

7. Literature. Analysis and criticism. The object of the course, which is elective, is a further and closer acquaintance with English poetry, and with the ever-developing spirit in the national mind, of which poetry is the highest expression. The work is carried on by rapid reading, discussions, and lectures. Three hours a week.

In 1903-1904, the topic of study is, "The Romantic Revolution in English Poetry," from 1750 to 1830. The development in form and spirit is traced through the work of Johnson, Goldsmith, Gray, Cowper, Burns, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Byron, Shelley, and Keats.

Every member of the Senior class is required to write, before graduation, a thesis of 2,000 words on a subject approved by the professor of English.

GRADUATE COURSES IN ENGLISH.

The advice and assistance of the professor of English is at the disposal of graduates of this or any other college, who desire to pursue advanced studies in any department of the English language or literature; these studies may or may not be undertaken with reference to the M. A. degree. One year of resident, or two years of non-resident, work will be required for the attainment of this degree in English; a thesis must be presented on the completion of the work.

The present year, graduate students are being directed in work upon the Romantic Movement, upon the Elizabethan Drama, and upon Victorian Poetry.

XIII. MODERN LANGUAGES.

PROFESSOR WAGGENER.

The first year in both French and German is devoted to a thorough drill in the grammar of the language, especial attention being given to training in composition and pronunciation. Sight reading is introduced at the earliest opportunity, and is continued throughout the course. The second year is spent in translation alone. The recitations are so arranged that any student can pursue the study of French or German, either to fill out his complement of studies or as an extra course.

FRESHMAN AND JUNIOR CLASSES.

1. French Grammar, Composition, and Sight Reading. Three hours a week.

Texts: Grandgent's Short French Grammar;

Whitney's Practical French; Kuhn's French Reading for Beginners.

2. German Grammar, Composition, and Sight Reading. Three hours a week.

Texts: The Joynes-Meissner German Grammar; Mærchen and Erzæhlungen, I.; Huss's German Reader.

SOPHOMORE AND SENIOR CLASSES.

3. French Translation. Two hours a week.

Texts: Super's French Reader; Le Conscrit de 1813; Le Chien du Capitaine.

4. German Translation. Two hours a week.

Texts: Der Schwiegersohn; Die Monate; Inkognito; Wilhelm Tell; Auf der Sonnenseite.

5. Spanish. This is a one-year course in grammar work and translation. It can be taken by the Juniors or the Seniors as an elective, and is open to the other classes as an optional study. Three hours a week.

Texts: Edgren's Spanish Grammar; Ramsey's Elementary Spanish Reader.

XIV. HYGIENE AND PHYSICAL TRAINING.

MR. EDMONDS.

Recent scientific investigations of brain and nerve centres demonstrate the fact that certain tracts of brain cells are developed by movement, and the necessity for proper physical training as a basis for mental education becomes, therefore, apparent.

The college gymnasium is thoroughly equipped in every particular. The apparatus is all of the best, and comprises everything needful for indoor exercise.

There are both shower and tub baths. A base-ball cage in connection furnishes opportunity for catching, throwing and light batting practice throughout the winter. The Y. M. C. A. assembly hall and reading room, and offices for the physical director, are also located in the gymnasium building.

All exercising is done under the direct supervision of an experienced instructor, and the attempt is made to suit work to the special needs and limitations of individual students. In cases of weak heart or disorder of any kind, due care is taken to prevent exertion that is too violent or improper in other respects.

Freshmen and Sophomores are required to take gymnasium work two hours a week. This class exercise consists mainly of dumb-bell, Indian-club, and chest-weight movements, designed to bring all the muscles up to a symmetrical development. During the Winter term, when foot ball, base ball, track athletics, and tennis are out of season, gymnasium classes are held every afternoon. These classes are open to all.

On the first Friday night in March the annual gymnastic exhibition is held.

Field and track athletics are encouraged by the Faculty within proper limits, and the training is carried on under the direction of competent instructors. The athletic field is one of the best in the South.

XV. ORATORY.

MR. SAXON.

The aims of this department are: To cause the student to observe himself, and to become conscious of his possibilities, ideal as well as actual, and to compare the one with the other; to stimulate thinking and to inspire the student to recognize the spontaneous activity of his own nature; to awaken the imaginative and creative faculties of the man; to train the voice and body to be more flexible and responsive to the mind; and to guard carefully the individuality of the student, that delivery may be developed along the line of nature's intentions.

The work done in the Department of Oratory embraces studies, exercises and problems. Each study takes up one of the restrictions which hinder the free use of the agents of expression; each exercise shows how that restriction can be removed; each problem, the result of practising the exercise.

First Year. Vocal and Pantomimic Training; Extemporaneous Speaking; Criticism.

Second Year. Vocal and Pantomimic Training; Extemporaneous Speaking; Debate; Criticism.

Third Year. Advanced Vocal and Pantomimic Training; Vocal Interpretation of Literature; Impersonations; Debate; Criticism.

PRIZES.

THE HENRY BARRET BOYLE PRIZE.

The Henry Barret Boyle Prize, established by Gen. J. T. Boyle, is annually awarded to the best Latin student of the Sophomore class, provided that the contestant's work in every other department is of a high order. The prize consists of the yearly interest on $1,500; for the current session this income will be expended in the purchase of a gold watch appropriately engraved. The award is publicly made by the President on Commencement Day.

THE ORMOND BEATTY ALUMNI PRIZE.

In 1886 the Alumni of Centre College contributed a fund of $1,000 to signalize the completion of President Beatty's fifty years' service to his alma mater. The annual interest on this fund is publicly awarded on Commencement Day to the student of the Senior class who has the best record for punctuality, deportment, and scholarship. In determining this award account is taken of the Senior work only.

ORATORICAL PRIZE.

An oratorical contest between the two literary societies is held annually in the Second Presbyterian church of Danville. The prizes awarded to the successful competitors consist of two gold medals presented by the college. The date of this contest is Monday evening of Commencement week.

INTERIOR OF LIBRARY

MRS. ROSWELL MILLER FRESHMAN PRIZE.

Mrs. Roswell Miller, of New York City, has established what is known as the Mrs. Roswell Miller Freshman Prize, open to all Freshmen who are candidates for the A. B. and B. S. degrees. The two candidates, the one an A. B., and the other a B. S., securing the highest average in the regular work of Freshman year, will receive each a prize of $75 in gold, to which the College adds a scholarship worth $50, making the equivalent of $125.

THE SIDNEY J. JOHNSON PRIZE.

This prize was established by Mrs. Johnson as a memorial of her deceased husband, Sidney J. Johnson, an alumnus of Central University. The prize, a gold watch, is awarded in June to that student of the Junior Class who during the year has attained the highest general average in all his studies.

SCOHLARSHIPS.

In addition to the scholarships already at the disposal of the Faculty, the following have been recently founded:

1. THE RODES SCHOLARSHIP, $1,000, founded by Mrs. Thomas E. Tutt, of St. Louis, Mo.
2. THE E. L. SAMUEL SCHOLARSHIP, $1,000 founded by E. L. Samuel, of Frankfort, Ky.
3. THE MRS. ADA READ SCHOLARSHIP, $1,000, founded by her sons, James C., F. S., and H. C. Read, of Fort Smith, Ark., and W. C. Read, of St. Paul, Minn.
4. THE YODER POIGNARD SCHOLARSHIP, $1,000, founded by Yoder Poignard, of Taylorsville, Ky.
5. THE J. MCCLUSKEY BLAYNEY SCHOLARSHIP, $1,000, founded by Rev. J. McCluskey Blayney, D. D., of Frankfort, Ky.
6. THE MISS LEILA MOORE CRUIKSHANKS ANNUAL SCHOLARSHIP, $200, to pay the tuition of a student through a four-years' course in College.
7. THE ANNIE E. MOORE SCHOLARSHIP, $1,000, for the benefit of a student throughout his course, if his work is satisfactory to the Faculty. The recipient must be a candidate for the Presbyterian ministry. A student from Hyden Mission, founded by Rev. Wm. L. Moore, of New York City, will have the preference.

8. THE WILLIAM L. MOORE SCHOLARSHIP, $1,000, founded by Rev. William L. Moore, of New York City.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

Public Worship.

Devotional exercises, consisting of prayers, hymns, and Scripture reading, are conducted in the chapel every morning, and all the students are required to be present. They are also required to attend the preaching of the gospel at least once on each Sabbath.

Young Men's Christian Association.

This society aims to bring students under good influences, and to furnish opportunities for Christian work in the College and its vicinity. Special efforts are made to help new students through its means.

The work of the Association has been unusually active and successful during the present college year. This is specially true of the department of Bible Study, in which eight classes have been formed, with a total enrollment of eighty-one.

The society has been provided with large and beautiful rooms in the Gymnasium, where its members meet for prayer and social intercourse. These rooms have been elegantly furnished by a generous friend.

Reading Room.

The reading room in the Gymnasium is under the management of the Young Men's Christian Association and the two literary societies. Here are found the leading magazines and periodicals, and the exchanges of the College monthly, The Central University Cento. A student is appointed to receive and arrange the reading matter, and issue keys and membership privileges. Every student should connect himself with this organization.

Student Publications.

The students of the College publish two periodicals, The Central News, and The Cento. The former is a weekly, appearing every Thursday during the college year, and devoted to the recording of current events in the college world. The Cento is a literary monthly, publishing eight numbers yearly, and furnishing opportunity for valuable training in journalism to students with a gift for writing. In addition to these an annual, The Cardinal and Blue, is published every spring by the Senior class.

Examinations.

Examinations of all the classes are held at the close of each of the three terms, and are conducted by the several professors in their departments. The final examinations of the graduating class close the third Friday in May. Special examinations are held during the year, as needed.

Reports.

Reports of each student's scholarship, attendance, and general deportment are made to his parent or guardian three times a year. Special reports are made at shorter intervals if there is anything in the student's conduct or standing to call for them.

Rank of Scholarship.

The rank of scholarship in the graduating class of each year will be indicated in the Commencement program as follows: Summa cum laude, prefixed to a degree, indicates that the recipient is a first-class scholar; magna cum laude, second-class; cum laude, third-class; those with no prefix have a grade below 85.

Preparation for College.

The Faculty of the College, prompted by their experience in entrance examinations, would most earnestly call the attention of teachers preparing students for college to the importance of accuracy and thoroughness in the elements of education, especially in orthography, composition, the principles of English grammar and arithmetic, and the forms of the classical languages. Students who are thoroughly prepared in these do well from the first, and their progress is rapid and satisfactory; but inadequate preparation in the elements renders the higher studies more difficult, and causes the whole course to be a failure. The stress of the entrance examination is, therefore, laid upon accuracy in elementary knowledge.

Late Entrance.

All students should present themselves punctually at the opening of the session in September. Many disadvantages result from late entrance, and in some instances it has been found impossible for a student entering late to maintain his standing in the class. Prompt attendance is, therefore, earnestly enjoined upon all who wish to derive the full benefits of the course of instruction.

Boarding.

Many of the students live in private families, in which they enjoy the advantages of a Christian home, and are thus preserved from many temptations. Here the rates for boar dand room range from $3.50 to $4.50 per week.

The provision of good board for those who, on account of limited means, are not able to pay these prices, has been felt to be one of the most pressing needs of the College. This need has been largely met. Good board will henceforth be furnished at the lowest possible terms in the College Home and in Breckinridge Hall.

The College Home.

In this, the Old College building, very comfortable rooms sufficient to accommodate a goodly number of young men have been fitted up. These rooms, furnished with stove, chairs, bed, table, and washstand, are rented for the small annual charge of $8 to applicants of good character and limited means.

The plan of placing the boarding department in the hands of students selected by the Faculty to carry it out, has proved successful, and the price of table board for the present year is only $2.00 per week. The Home will be conducted upon the same plan during the coming year. Application for accommodation in the Home should be made to the acting President as early as possible.

Breckinridge Hall.

This Hall is an elegant and commodious dormitory building, with accommodations for about fifty students. The building is so constructed that each student has a bed-room to himself, two bed-rooms opening into a common study. Each room has a grate for open fire. The College is able to offer comfortably furnished rooms in this building at a uniform charge to each student of $31 per year; this covers room rent, fuel, and water.

A limited number of those occupying rooms in Breckinridge Hall can, upon application to the stewards, obtain board at the College Home. For those who can not be thus accommodated at the Home, good board can be found in private families for from $2.50 to $3 per week.

As these accommodations have been provided primarily to aid young men of limited means and industrious habits in obtaining, at the lowest possible cost, a liberal education, preference will be given in assignment of rooms to those studying for the ministry, and to others of limited means who maintain a high standard in character and scholarship.

Applications for rooms in this building must be made to J. A. Cheek, Treasurer, who will reserve rooms only on deposit of $5.00, which will be credited on the rent of the room. If the room is not taken and the balance of the rent paid, the deposit of $5.00 will be forfeited.

It is believed that, for those obtaining scholarships and living in the College Home, the entire expense during the College year need be but little over $100, while $31 more will cover all necessary expenses for those having rooms in Breckinridge Hall. No college anywhere can offer at less expense the privileges and advantages afforded students at the Centre College of Central University.

*Where students live in a private family, the fuel and light are included in the price of board.

From this statement it will be seen that the necessary annual expenses of those students who are placed on scholarships, and who live in the College Home or Breckinridge Hall, will not be more than $112 to $136.

The Treasurer will be at the College for the collection of fees on certain days at the opening of each term, when all students are required to settle with him.

Before a student is admitted to actual standing in any class, a receipt showing that he has complied with the rules relating to College charges must be presented. No fees will be returned save in cases of removal from the College on account of severe and protracted illness.

A graduation fee of $7, covering diploma fee and all expenses of Commencement Day, must be deposited by every candidate for graduation with the Treasurer of the College a month before Commencement. If the candidate should not receive a diploma, this deposit will be returned.

The Library.

The Library, located in Sayre Hall, consists of 20,099 volumes. Some special donations, known as the Mutchmore, Roberts, Young, Beatty, Burchard, and Miller collections, have been placed in separate alcoves, and are being increased from time to time.

During the year ending June 1, 1903, there were added 781 bound volumes and 872 pamphlets.

The Library of the original Central University, at Richmond, has been incorporated with that of the Centre College, and the entire collection is now arranged and catalogued according to the decimal system.

Museum.

The Museum is well supplied with material for illustration in all branches of College work. The typical minerals are systematically arranged, so that one can see by a glance at the label where each belongs in its relations to others; the various ores, with duplicates convenient for study, are provided for critical examination.

In palæontology, fossils typical of all the epochs are on the shelves and in the work-room for special inspection. The rarer forms, such as Ichthyosaurus, Plesiosaurus, Pterodactylus, Dinosaurus, Glyptodon, and Megatherium, are represented by Ward's casts, supplied through the liberality of the late Dr. John W. Scott.

In zoology, the cases hold land, fresh-water and marine shells from all parts of the world, and considerable progress has been made in collecting specimens in other branches of this study.

In botany, the nucleus of an herbarium has been formed, and plants are being added yearly by exchange and local research.

Literary Societies.

There are two literary societies connected with the College,—the Chamberlain and the Deinologian. For these the College provides commodious halls, which have been handsomely fitted up and furnished by the members. Both societies are supplied with good libraries, each containing about 3,500 volumes, which are receiving additions from year to year. The work of the societies is regarded as supplemental to that done in the class-rooms, and they are encouraged accordingly. Their exercises consist of debate, declamation, composition, and other forms of literary activity, and are conducted under such rules and regulations as the societies may adopt, consistent with the general objects of the College.

Oratorical Exercises.

The literary societies hold public exercises on the 22d of February; and on the Monday preceding Commencement Day, an oratorical contest takes place between representatives of these societies. To the successful competitor in each contest, a gold medal is awarded. The successful contestant in the former contest represents the College in the annual Inter-Collegiate State Oratorical Contest. The representatives in the Chautauqua and Southern Inter-Collegiate Contests are appointed by the Faculty.

Degrees.

For undergraduate work in College two degrees are given, the A. B. degree to those who complete the classical course, the B. S. degree to those who complete any one of the scientific courses.

Graduate Degrees.

The degree of A. M. (Master of Arts) will, upon recommendation of the Faculty, be conferred upon any Bachelor of Arts of the Centre College, or of any other approved institution, who, having satisfactorily completed a year of resident graduate study, shall pass a creditable examination upon the entire year's work.

The degree of M. S. (Master of Science) will be conferred under similar conditions upon any Bachelor of Science.

The work required for these degrees may, if desired, be extended over more than one year. In that case, by special permission of the Faculty, a portion of the work, or all of it except the examinations, may be performed in absence.

Candidates may confine their work to one department of the College, or may divide it between two; in the latter case, one subject will be designated as a major, the other as a minor. The work in the major subject will include the preparation of a thesis.

Correspondence in regard to graduate work in any department of study should be addressed to the professor in charge.

Honorary Degrees.

The degree of D. D., or LL. D., or other honorary degrees, may be conferred by the Trustees upon such persons as they may deem worthy. But the degree of Master of Arts is awarded for definitely assigned work only.

Scholarships.

A number of scholarships have been recently established by liberal friends of the college (see p. 58), and through these the institution is enabled to offer free tuition to the sons of ministers of every denomination, and to other young men of extremely limited means and good character. All worthy men are welcome to the privileges of the college; no one will be excluded merely because of inability to pay the ordinary fee for instruction.

Endowment.

In addition to the united endowments of the Centre College and the Central University, the University has received since the consolidation in August, 1901, the following revenue-yielding funds and property:

First. The sum of $6,500, given for religious instruction, the interest of which was given to the Danville Theological Seminary so long as it remained in Danville, but which reverted to the College when the Seminary was removed to Louisville.

Second. Breckinridge Hall, a most commodious dormitory, valued at $25,000, which is rented to the students of the College and the University.

Third. The sum of $25,000, given by Thomas H. Swope, Esq., of Kansas City, on the condition that a similar sum should be raised by the friends of the institution.

Fourth. The sum of $25,000, contributed by other friends of the institution in Kentucky, in order to secure this generous gift.

Fifth. The sum of $25,000 left to Central University for its permanent fund, and $15,000 bequeathed for the endowment fund of the Lees Collegiate Institute.

Advantages of Location.

Danville, the seat of the College, is situated on the main line of the Queen & Crescent Railroad, extending with its leased lines from Cincinnati to New Orleans; it is also near the Lebanon and Knoxville branch of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and is easily accessible from all quarters. Danville is very near the geographical center of the state, within the "Blue Grass" region, and is surrounded by an exceedingly beautiful and fertile country. It has an elevation of more than 1,000 feet above the level of the sea, and the surrounding country is undulating so as to afford perfect drainage. Probably no healthier spot can be found within the limits of the State. Malaria is unknown except when brought in from other sections of the country. This small city of about 5,000 inhabitants is noted for its high moral tone, and for the refinement and intelligence of its people. It has long been the seat of important educational institutions, for both men and women. The students of the College receive a warm welcome among the most cultured families of the city; few students come to Danville who do not find homes in it for which they form strong attachments and from which they part with reluctance. The town has strong churches of all denominations, and the people are church-going. There are in the town no licensed saloons for the sale of intoxicating liquors. The saloons were closed many years since by the Trustees, under the instruction of a decided vote of the people, and a special act of the Legislature makes it unlawful to retail liquor within two miles of the city limits.

Accessibility.

The way to reach Danville is via the trunk line known as the Queen & Crescent Route. Solid vestibuled trains via the Q. & C. run from New Orleans, Meridian, Birmingham and Chattanooga to Danville without change. There are four trains daily each way between Danville, Lexington, Louisville and Cincinnati. A new line of railway, providing direct communication with Louisville without change of cars, will be opened in the fall of 1904.

The Corporate Name.

The corporate name of this institution is, "Central University of Kentucky."

Form of Bequest.

"I give and bequeath to Central University of Kentucky, for the sole use and benefit of The Centre College of Kentucky, located at Danville, in the State of Kentucky—said Centre College being the academical department of said Central University—the following" —(here describe the thing or property given.)

If the donor or testator desire that the money, stock, or property shall be devoted to a particular professorship, department, scholarship or medal, etc., he will, after describing the property or thing given, as indicated above, add the following:

"To be held in trust, and used by said CENTRAL UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY under the control and direction of the Board of Trustees thereof, for" (here describe the particular use desired to be made of the fund, or of its annual interest).

Administration.

1. Every student is required to attend the daily devotional exercises in the College Chapel, and public worship at some church at least once on the Lord's Day.

2. No student will be permitted to leave the city during the term, without previous permission from the President.

BOYLE-HUMPHREY GYMNASIUM.

3. No student will be continued in a class for which he is unfit either in deportment or in scholarship.

4. Damage done to any part of the College property shall be repaired by the offender.

5. Since the sole aim of the Trustees in framing the College laws and regulations, and that of the Faculty in administering them, is to secure the best interests of the students, it is confidently expected that every one will yield a cheerful obedience to them. The government of the College is intended to be mild, granting to each student all privileges and enjoyments consistent with his own welfare and that of his associates; at the same time it must be firm, enforcing obedience to all the restraints and restrictions which the Trustees or the Faculty shall deem it their duty to enjoin. If any offend against the rules, their reformation will be strictly aimed at so far as practicable, and no severe or humiliating penalty will be inflicted, except when the paramount interests of the institution demand it. The students are treated as gentlemen and are expected to conduct themselves as such.

HISTORY.

In the separate growth and development of the Centre College and the Central University, the need was felt in each for a Department of Law, in which especially the graduates of the Academic Departments might pursue their studies until equipped for the bar.

Such a department was early established at the Central University at Richmond, but after several years, the professors, who were also practicing attorneys, moved away, and the Law School was suspended. In the fall of 1898, it was reorganized under more favorable auspices, with the veteran law teacher, Hon. William Chenault, as Dean, and Mr. Richard White Miller as Associate Professor, and these two gentlemen conducted the school until its removal to Danville.

The Danville Law School was established in 1894. Through the efforts of President William C. Young, Ex-Gov. J. Proctor Knott was induced to give up his practice at Frankfort and come to Danville, where, as Dean of the Law School, he devoted his entire time for the next seven years to the work of instruction. Associated with Ex-Gov. Knott were Hon. Robert P. Jacobs and Hon. John W. Yerkes, whose lectures, like those of Ex-Gov. Knott, were eagerly sought by the students. When several years later, Mr. Jacobs and Mr. Yerkes, owing to the pressure of other work, gave up their positions in the School, they were succeeded by Hon. Robert T. Quisenberry and Hon. Charles H.

Rodes. Ex-Gov. Knott remained at the head of the School until June, 1901, when, on account of failing health, he resigned and retired from active work.

At the same time, the consolidation of the Centre College and the Central University was effected, and the Law Department of the consolidated institution was established at Danville under the name of the College of Law of Central University. Hon. Thos. P. Hill, of Stanford, was elected temporary Dean, and, with Mr. Rodes and Mr. Arthur C. VanWinkle, carried on the work of instruction during the session of 1901-2. In June, 1902, the present Dean was elected, under whom and his associates the School was reorganized, new quarters were obtained, and the course much extended.

During the last two sessions, owing largely to the generous gifts of Mrs. Zillah Y. Jacobs, the equipment of the school has been greatly improved, and the library especially has been enlarged. The attendance has nearly doubled, and the prospects of the School are brighter than ever for increased patronage and usefulness.

Admission.

No examinations are required for admission to the Law School, but each student must be able to satisfy the Dean that he is prepared to undertake the work of the School. It is strongly recommended that the student first take a complete College course, or at least graduate from the High School; if the candidate for admission is found deficient, the privilege is reserved of requiring him to take certain studies in the departments of English, History, and Political Science in the Centre College.

Studies in the Centre College.

Students matriculating in the Law School have the privilege of attending, free of charge, any lectures and recitations in the Centre College. Abundant opportunity is thus afforded the student to make up any deficiency in his earlier education and to fit himself for intellectual leadership in active life. It is especially recommended that students who have not had a College education take at least one course each term in English or American History, Political Science, Economics, or Literature, as they may have opportunity.

Admission to Advanced Standing.

Private study or work done in other Law Schools is no longer accepted in lieu of similar courses in the Law School. Such students, however, as present certificates from other law schools of approved standing, that they have completed certain courses, will be excused from attendance upon these courses; but in no case will the student be excused from taking the regular examinations with the remainder of the class.

Special Students.

Students are strongly advised to take the regular course prescribed for candidates for a degree, but upon assigning satisfactory reasons, they may be given special permission to take an elective course. In this way, students are afforded opportunity to devote special attention to those subjects required for admission to the bar in their respective states.

By recent act of the Kentucky Legislature, all candidates for admission to the bar hereafter in this state, must pass an examination before the Circuit Court of a district in which the applicant does not reside, in the following subjects:

The common law; equity jurisprudence; constitutional law, federal and state; criminal law; real property; contracts; pleading; evidence; negotiable instruments; torts; corporations, public and private.

COURSE OF STUDY.

The curriculum is arranged for a course of two years of nine months each, those taking the first year's work being known as Juniors and the second year as Seniors. The work of each session is divided into three terms, ending respectively at Christmas, the Friday nearest the middle of March, and Commencement. After a subject is taken up, recitations are held upon it daily until it is completed, and it is believed that by thus concentrating the student's attention, better results are obtained than by instruction in a number of subjects concurrently, with recitations at longer intervals. The studies during the first year consist chiefly of substantive law, while the greater part of the second year is devoted to procedure and its kindred branches. The work is further so arranged that it can be begun with any term, and hitherto, some of the most successful students have been those entering after the Christmas holidays. It is strongly urged, however, that wherever possible, the student should enter promptly at the beginning of the Fall term.

The method of instruction pursued is by means of text-books, lectures and illustrative cases, coupled with a daily quiz on the topic assigned. It is confidently believed that in this way the best results are achieved. It is believed that the student should have in his hands for careful study at least a brief text in which the general principles of the subject are developed, and that these principles should then be illustrated by the reading of selected cases, the whole being accompanied by a searching quiz on the part of the professor as a test of the student's accuracy, and by further oral exposition and discussion. The aim throughout is to develop the scientific principles underlying the law and its application in specific instances. At the end of each term final examinations are held on all the work covered during the term, and the last month during the Senior year is devoted to a general review of the whole course, with special reference to preparation of the graduates for admission to the bar.

An outline of the course of instruction is given below:

Junior Year.

(1) The Common Law—Professor Throckmorton.

This course consists of preliminary lectures on the common law in its application to modern American law, the sources of modern municipal law, and kindred topics.

(2) Contracts and Agency—Professor Throckmorton.

Clark on Contracts, Huffcut on Agency (2d ed.), Hopkins' Cases on Contracts, the Professor's notes.

(3) Real Property, Wills, and Administration—Professor Throckmorton.

Tiedeman on Real Property (2d ed.), Tiedeman's

Cases on Real Property, Lectures and the Professor's notes.

(4) Constitutional Law, Federal and State—Professor Throckmorton.

Cooley's Constitutional Law, Smith's Cases on Constitutional Law.

(5) Domestic Relations and Personal Property—Professor Throckmorton.

Tiffany on Persons and Domestic Relations, Burdick on Sales (2d ed.), Lectures and the Professor's notes.

(6) Bailments and Carriers—Professor Throckmorton.

Lawson on Bailments.

(7) Negotiable Instruments — Professor Van-Winkle.

Bigelow on Bills, Notes, and Cheques (3d ed.), Johnson's Cases on Bills and Notes.

(8) Insurance—Mr. Snyder.

Lectures and Selected Cases.

Senior Year.

(1) Common Law Pleading — Professor Van-Winkle.

Shipman's Common Law Pleading, Lectures and the Professor's notes.

(2) Code Pleading and Practice—Professor Van-Winkle.

Bliss on Code Pleading, the Professor's notes.

(3) Equity Jurisprudence—Professor Rodes.

Eaton on Equity, Lectures and the Professor's notes.

(4) Corporations—Professor Rodes.

Clark on Corporations, Lectures and Selected Cases.

(5) Evidence—Professor VanWinkle.

Greenleaf on Evidence, Vol. I. (16th ed.), Selected Cases.

(6) Criminal Law and Procedure — Professor Throckmorton.

Clark's Criminal Law, Beale's Criminal Pleading and Practice.

(7) Torts—Professor Rodes.

Bigelow on Torts (7th ed.), Chase's Cases on Torts.

(8) Special Lectures by Judge Denton and Mr. Miller on Appellate Practice, Federal Procedure, and other topics.

Scheme of Lectures.

	Juniors.	Seniors.
First Term.	The Common Law. Contracts. Agency.	Common Law Pleading. Corporations.
Second Term.	Real Property. Domestic Relations. Personal Property. Insurance.	Code Pleading. Appellate Practice. Equity Jurisprudence.
Third Term.	Constitutional Law. Bailments and Carriers. Negotiable Instruments	Evidence. Torts. Criminal Law and Procedure. Federal Procedure.

Law Debating Society.

The J. Proctor Knott Law Debating Society meets fortnightly throughout the Fall term, and affords the student opportunity from the very beginning of his course for the oral discussion and application of the principles of law. The society is conducted by the students themselves, but the questions for debate are furnished by the professors, at least one of whom is present at every meeting, and is expected, at the close of the discussion, to give his opinion upon the points under discussion.

Moot Court.

In connection with the regular courses in Pleading and Practice, the students are constantly required to draw all kinds of pleadings, which are examined and criticised by the professor in presence of the class. The class in Real Property is also utilized as a school of conveyancing, in which the students are required to prepare deeds, wills, contracts, leases, etc. Early in January the Moot Court is organized, and thereafter meets once a week until the end of the session. Here the students are given valuable practice in pleading and procedure under both the common law and code systems, embracing also criminal procedure and procedure in the courts of equity.

Law Library.

The Law Library consists of a valuable collection of Encyclopædias, Text Books, Reports and Digests, and is located in the large and comfortable room immediately over the recitation hall.

In March, 1903, the Library was greatly enlarged through the generous gift of Mrs. Zillah Y. Jacobs of the law library of her husband, the late Hon. Robert P. Jacobs, as a memorial of Mr. Jacobs' former connection with the Law School and of his abiding interest in its welfare. During the past session further valuable donations to the Library have been made by Mr. Frank Flaig, The Courier-Journal Job Printing Company, Hon. John D. Carroll, and Mr. Charles F. Beach, Jr.

The Library is under the supervision of a competent librarian, and is open all day. Students are encouraged to make free use of it in connection with their daily recitations, and more especially in preparing written opinions, and in the work of the law debating society and the moot court. At an hour appointed early in the session, a lecture is given the new students by the Dean on the bibliography of the law and the use of books in gathering material for written opinions, briefs, etc.

Law School Building.

The south wing of the Old College building has been set apart for the use of the Law School. The large recitation hall on the first floor has been handsomely fitted up with new individual desks with writing arms attached, while the library in the room on the second floor is accessible at all times both from the recitation room and the outside.

Examinations and Degree.

A grade of seventy-five per cent is required as a passing mark in all studies, and upon the successful completion of the regular class work, and that of the moot court and other assigned work, the degree of LL. B. is conferred upon the student.

Honors and Prizes.

1. LAW CLASS ORATION—One member of the graduating class is selected each year by the Faculty to deliver an oration, known as the Law Class Oration, on Commencement day.

2. FACULTY PRIZE—To that member of the Junior class who attains the highest general average of proficiency during the session, is annually awarded a copy of Black's Law Dictionary.

Expenses.

The tuition fee in the Law School is $75 for the session, half of which is payable upon matriculation, and the remainder February 1. For students attending the full course of lectures in both the Junior and Senior classes, the tuition fee is $100. Students matriculating after the opening of the session will be charged in proportion. A further fee of $7 is charged upon graduation to cover cost of diploma and commencement expenses. There are no other fees or "incidentals" charged the students, those stated above covering the entire cost of residence in the school and graduation.

The cost of books will vary. If all are bought new, the total cost of those used in the entire two years' course will be about $60. Students are advised to wait until they reach Danville before purchasing their books, as special arrangements are made by which they are furnished through the Librarian at reduced prices.

Good board may be had in private homes in Danville at from $3.50 to $5.00 per week, or by rooming in Breckinridge Hall or the College Home, these expenses may be reduced to from $2 to $2.50 per week.

For further particulars in regard to the expense of living at the University, see page 65. It is believed that owing to the connection of the Law School with the University, an opportunity is afforded the law students for comfortable living at very moderate expense, quite unusual with professional students.

HOSPITAL COLLEGE OF MEDICINE.

LOCAL ADVANTAGES.

The city of Louisville has for half a century enjoyed the distinction of being one of the great centers of medical education in America. The central location of the city, midway between the extremes of North and South; its mild and equable climate; and its accessibility by means of its admirable railway facilities, offer exceptional advantages for educational purposes. The expenses of living are less than in any other large city in the United States. Statistics show that it is the healthiest city of its class, with exceptional freedom from epidemic diseases. With a population of over 225,000, with numerous large hospitals and dispensaries, this city affords unsurpassed facilities for medical instruction.

COLLEGE BUILDING.

The site of the College is immediately opposite the entrance to the Louisville City Hospital, on Chestnut Street. The situation is admirably adapted for the convenience of students, and for the large clinical work of the College. Six years ago a handsome four-story building was erected, which, with the former buildings (now thoroughly remodeled and improved), provides one of the most complete establishments for medical instruction in this country. This building is a modern brick and stone structure, with two large lecture-rooms, recitation-rooms, library, and museum, and well-equipped laboratories for Chemistry, Practical Anatomy, Operative Surgery, Histology, Pathology and Bacteriology, and Physiology.

HOSPITAL ADVANTAGES.

The Gray Street Infirmary.

Four years ago the Faculty of the College erected a hospital adjoining the College building and connected with it. This addition to the facilities for clinical instruction enables students to acquire a practical hospital experience and training.

The new hospital is known as the "Gray Street Infirmary," and is a four-story brick and stone structure, of handsome design, fronting on Gray Street and extending to the rear of the present College building, with special entrance for students. It contains four wards, two for white and two for colored patients, male and female; with numerous private rooms for special medical and surgical cases. The building is constructed and arranged after the most approved methods, with all modern appointments.

The College Dispensary.

The Dispensary of the College, which has always been largely attended by the indigent population of the city, has been greatly enlarged and the service systematized. Every facility has been added for conducting the treatment of 20,000 to 25,000 patients at the Dispensary annually.

Both the Infirmary and the Dispensary are kept open throughout the year. A resident physician and druggist are in attendance, and the clinics are regularly conducted. Here advanced students in sections are taught methods of diagnosis and clinical observation and treatment. All the principal major surgical operations, general and special, as well as minor operations, are performed in the presence of the class. Every variety of disease is illustrated by patients in attendance upon the College clinics and in the Infirmary.

The City Hospital.

The Louisville City Hospital has recently been greatly enlarged and improved. Its ample wards are kept constantly filled. All the requisites for advanced clinical instruction are abundant in the amphitheater and wards. The classes of the College are admitted to the hospital lectures and clinics. For two and one-half months during the session the service of the City Hospital is entirely conducted by the Faculty of the Hospital College of Medicine. Medical and Surgical Clinics are held there two afternoons each week during the session.

The splendid clinical advantages offered students by the Dispensary of the College, the perfected facilities of the Gray Street Infirmary, and the general medical and surgical clinics of the City Hospital constitute a complete system of clinical instruction.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Every student upon entering this College is required to furnish satisfactory proof of good moral character. He must possess a diploma of graduation from some literary or scientific institution of learning, or a certificate from some legally-constituted High School, or Superintendent of Public Instruction, attesting that he is possessed of the educational attainments required of a teacher of the first or second grade; or he must pass a satisfactory examination in accordance with the requirements of the Association of American Medical Colleges, of which this college is a member.

Students who have attended one full course of lectures in any regular and recognized medical college may apply for admission to the second course of lectures; students applying for admission to the classes of the third and fourth years must likewise show that they have previously attended two and three courses respectively in recognized medical colleges.

Graduates of recognized colleges and universities, who have completed therein prescribed courses in elementary branches of medicine, including Chemistry and Biology, may likewise apply for advanced standing.

LOUISVILLE COLLEGE OF DENTISTRY.

The New College Building.

The Louisville College of Dentistry was organized in 1887, as a branch of the Central University of Kentucky, and was connected with the Hospital College of Medicine up to 1890. In that year, on account of the increase in the number of students attending its sessions and the advance in its equipment and methods of teaching, it became necessary to provide a new home for the College of Dentistry, and the faculty were fortunate in securing a very desirable site on the northwest corner of Brook Street and Broadway. Upon this property has been erected a handsome and complete college building, modern in arrangement and equipment, which has been pronounced by all who have inspected it to be equal to any dental college building in existence.

Electric car lines, which, with their systems of transfers, reach every part of the city, pass the new building on two sides, and thus make the daily clinic available to all those desirous of dental service, giving the student all the opportunity possible to get sufficient practical experience before graduating.

National Recognition.

The Louisville College of Dentistry has been a member of the National Association of Dental Faculties ever since its organization, and through its representatives always takes an active part in the deliberations of that body. This college is recognized by the National Association of Dental Examiners; it also has membership in the Institute of Dental Pedagogics.

The Course of Instruction.

The course of instruction is based upon a full recognition of the fact that the profession of dentistry is a healing art, and hence the student is given every opportunity to extend his knowledge in the field of medicine. But naturally those subjects pertaining more strictly to the practice of dentistry receive the most earnest attention on the part of the instructors. It is a deserved tribute to the thoroughness of the teaching of the principles and practice of dental surgery that the graduates from this institution have no difficulty in passing the examining boards of those States where no dental degree is recognized, and many of the junior students have passed some of the most exacting boards successfully.

While the class instruction is all that can be desired, the practice in both the laboratory and infirmary brings into exercise the theory received in the amphitheater, and no established practitioner will meet in his daily practice any form of operation in the oral cavity that is not presented to the student in this college.

The Faculty.

The Faculty is composed of men experienced in their profession; the demonstrators in the laboratories and infirmary are competent and experienced. Members of the Faculty spend several hours of each week in the infirmary and laboratories giving practical instruction, and it can safely be said that the graduate of this school has had all the advantages of instruction in the technique of the profession that can possibly be obtained.

The Degree.

The object of this school is to elevate the dental profession, through its students, to that high standard that it must ultimately attain. The future possibilities of dental surgery can not be estimated, and in order that the dental student may be able to meet all requirements, it is absolutely necessary that his education be broad and comprehensive.

In order to obtain a degree from the Louisville College of Dentistry, it is necessary that four full courses of graded instruction be taken; the last of these must be in this college. No two courses can be taken during the same year.

It is the constant aim of the Faculty to have every student who receives a diploma of the college thoroughly equipped with that knowledge, both theoretical and practical, which will enable him to practice his profession in an eminently qualified manner, and to this end no pains have been spared to place before the student everything that will aid him in his present and future advancement.

Opening Date, October 4, 1904.

The Dental College now being independent, it was deemed best to change the date of opening so as to conform with that of the other colleges in the Dental Faculties Association. Students will please note that the next session of this college will begin on October 4, 1904, and continuing seven months, will close May 4, 1905. They should note, also, that students must be present and matriculate not later than ten days after the opening of the session in order to receive credit for the entire term.

The Post-graduate or Practical Course begins August 17, and continues to October 10. This is a thoroughly practical course, embracing all the important subjects of dentistry. Any one interested should write for special announcement.

Requirements for Admission.

Extracts from Code of Rules of the National Association of Dental Faculties:

"The minimum preliminary educational requirement of colleges of this Association shall be a certificate of entrance into the third year of a high school, or its equivalent, the preliminary examination to be placed in the hands of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction."

"No member of this Association shall give credit for a full course to students admitted later than ten days after the opening day of the session as published in the announcement."

"In case one is prevented by sickness, properly certified to by a reputable practicing physician, from complying with the foregoing rule, the time of admission shall not be later than twenty days from the opening day."

"Students in attendance at colleges of this Association, to obtain credit for a full term, must be and remain in attendance until the close of the session."

Students desiring to matriculate should bring any diplomas or credits for advanced standing, literary or otherwise, which they have.

The candidate will be required to submit to the Dean of the College satisfactory evidence of good moral character.

Matriculation at an early date is desirable in order to secure choice seats in the two amphitheaters, also chairs, lockers, etc., as all assignments are made in order of matriculation. The students are expected to occupy the seats assigned to them throughout the term.

Only white male students are admitted to the classes.

Instruments.

Each student, before beginning the work for the year, is positively required to procure certain instruments with which to do his work, a list of which will be furnished by the Dean. The outfit for college adapted for after-practice will cost about $25.00 for the Freshman year, and during the following years $50.00 to $75.00 more.

Requirements for Graduation.

The College, being a member of the National Association of Dental Faculties, requires that a candidate for graduation shall be twenty-one years of age, shall have devoted four years to the study of dentistry, and shall have attended four full courses of lectures in separate years, in which he shall have entered college not later than the tenth day after the beginning of each session, and the last of which shall have been in this institution; he must possess an acceptable moral character, and maintain good deportment while a student; he must also have deposited in the college museum a creditable specimen of prosthesis, made in the college laboratory, and have performed in the infirmary such operations as may have been required of him; finally, he must pass a satisfactory written examination on all obligatory branches.

Branches of Study.

All branches that have a direct bearing on dentistry are taught, including Anatomy, Physiology, Chemistry and Metallurgy, Operative Dentistry, Dental Pathology and Embryology, Prosthetic Dentistry, Crown and Bridge Work, Prosthetic Technics, Operative Technics, Dental and Comparative Dental Anatomy, Orthodontia, Materia Medica, Pharmacology and Hygiene, Dental Materia Medica and Therapeutics, Surgery, Anæsthetics and Oral Diseases, Histology, Bacteriology and Pathology, Physics and Porcelain Dental Art, Applied Electricity, Dental History, Practice and Ethics, and Dental Jurisprudence.

CENTRE COLLEGE ACADEMY.

FACULTY.

LESLIE CARROLL BOSLEY, A. M., LL. B., Principal.

ALFRED ALCORN HIGGINS, A. B., Instructor.

HUGH BERRY FLEECE, B. S., Instructor.

The Centre College Academy, at Danville, has for a number of years been the recognized preparatory school for Centre College. The work done in the Academy is so designed that the student can take up the College work without conditions. Not only are all the requirements for entrance fully complied with, but in some branches the Freshman work in the College is practically a review for the graduate of the Academy.

It is the aim of the instructors, not only to prepare a student thoroughly for College, but to inspire him with an ambition to complete his education. The increasing demand for educated men is kept constantly before his mind.

The thoroughness of the work of the Academy is attested by the fact that many of the most prominent alumni of the College have here received their elementary training. In recent years many of the College prizes have been won by the Academy students. The winners of both prizes offered by Mrs. Roswell Miller for the best entrance examination in September, 1902, were graduates of the Academy.

Building.

The Academy building is a large two-story brick structure with the very best ventilation and light. It is furnished with single desks, globes, maps and other appliances. The yard affords an ample exercise ground for students.

Tuition.

The tuition, payable in advance, for each term of five months, is $22.50 in the First Grade; $20.00 in the Second, Third and Fourth Grades; and $17.50 in the Primary Department.

Discipline.

The teachers in the Academy have, by long experience, found that appeals to the pride and reason of a student will almost always prevail, and only in extreme cases are severe disciplinary measures resorted to. Respect for instructors is demanded. Regular attendance is insisted upon, and absence from recitations is immediately reported to the parent or guardian. Any infringement on the rights of fellow-students, or the use of obscene language on the ground, is promptly punished. It is the aim of the Faculty to cultivate in all students the essentials of Christian manhood.

Gymnasium.

As a symmetrically developed body is of prime importance to every man, the students are encouraged to take advantage of the systematic drill in physical culture offered by the College Gymnasium. The Academy students are under the supervision of the College physical director. They have access to bowling alleys, bath-rooms and the College Library without extra expense.

COURSE OF STUDY.

MATHEMATICS.

First Grade: Arithmetic—Wells' Academic Arithmetic, with numerous examples illustrating every principle applicable to business transactions.

Algebra—Wentworth's New School Algebra completed, including ratio and proportion; examples taken from collateral works on algebra as a test of the student's knowledge of the principles involved.

Geometry—Wells' Essentials; two books.

Second Grade; Arithmetic—White's Complete Arithmetic. Written monthly tests, with daily drill in mental arithmetic.

Algebra—Wentworth's First Steps in Algebra, with especial drill on elementary principles.

Third Grade: Arithmetic—White's Complete Arithmetic, to interest. Special emphasis is laid upon analysis of examples, and reasons are required for every step taken. In mental arithmetic, accuracy and prompt answers are always insisted upon.

Fourth Grade: Arithmetic—White's Elementary Arithmetic completed; mental arithmetic continued. Neatness and accuracy in all written work are required.

LATIN.

First Grade: First and third books of Cæsar (Allen and Greenough). Special attention to parsing and construction of sentences; prose composition, reviewing case constructions, subordinate clauses of purpose, condition, etc. Virgil—two books, with parsing and scanning.

Second Grades New Gradatim; Gate to Cæsar; second book of Cæsar; Allen and Greenough's Latin Grammar; Latin prose composition; knowledge of forms and constructions required.

Third Grade: Review of Beginner's Latin Book; New Gradatim; exercise on forms and in Latin prose.

Fourth Grade: Beginner's Latin Book; conjugations, declensions, etc.

GREEK.

First Grade: Two books of the Anabasis; parsing; forms, especially the verb; Greek prose based on the Anabasis; study of participles, infinitives, and subordinate clauses; Goodwin's Greek Grammar.

Second Grade: Review of White's First Greek Book; one book of Anabasis; Goodwin's Greek Grammar, as far as syntax; drill on forms, parsing and Greek prose.

Third Grade: White's First Greek Book; pronunciation and accent.

HISTORY.

First Grade; General history.

Second Grade; English and French history.

Third Grade; Montgomery's Leading Facts of American History.

Fourth Grade; Montgomery's Primary History.

READING.

Realizing that the ability to read well is a rare accomplishment, we have introduced Baldwin's Readers and give daily drills in reading. The selections, which are taken from the best authors, are attractive and instructive.

ENGLISH.

It is the object of this department to give students a thorough knowledge of the principles of English grammar; to acquaint them with the rules and practice of composition, with special attention to punctuation, orthography, and paragraphing; and to give them an introduction to English literature. In the four grades various text-books on grammar are used, in the Sub-Freshman, an advanced grammar. In literature, a few masterpieces of the best English authors are carefully studied. Pupils are also examined upon books assigned by the instructor for collateral reading.

First Grade: Advanced English Grammar; Lewis' First Manual of Composition; Masterpieces of American Literature; with weekly compositions. Collateral Reading: Selections from Hawthorne, Longfellow and Irving.

Second Grade: Reed and Kellogg's Higher Lessons in English; compositions weekly.

Third Grade: Metcalf's English Grammar.

Fourth Grade: Harvey's Elementary English Grammar.

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.

It is the purpose of this department to provide a course of elementary work for those pupils who are not ready for the work of the Fourth Grade and who need a thorough drill in reading, spelling, elementary arithmetic, geography and writing.

We supplement the study of Cyr's Readers by collateral reading from attractive stories suitable to the age and development of the students. The rest of the course is as follows: Frye's Geographies, with map drawing; oral and written work in White's Elementary Arithmetic, together with a thorough drill in Stoddard's Intellectual Arithmetic; Natural Speller, with definition of all words spelled; writing, taught by an experienced penman.

WRITING.

Believing that the only way to form a letter correctly is to have a correct impression of that letter on the mind, we teach, first, the analysis of each; when the pupil has a knowledge of the formation of the letters, then he acquires by practice the habit of making them correctly and rapidly. Correct position at the desk, the proper manner of holding the pen, and other essentials of good penmanship are insisted upon.

PRIZES.

The Centre College offers a scholarship to that member of the First Grade or Sub-Freshman Class in the Academy who receives the highest general average for the year. In addition, the instructors offer prizes in their several departments as an incentive to work.

The Session of 1904-1905 begins September 5 and ends May 9.

LOCATION.

Jackson, the county-seat of Breathitt county, and a central point in the mountain region, is healthfully situated on the north fork of the Kentucky river. Easy communication with the large cities is afforded by means of the Lexington & Eastern Railway, through Winchester and Lexington.

The people of Jackson are heartily in sympathy with the work of the school, and give both students and teachers cordial welcome to their homes. No less cordial is the invitation extended by the churches, and the students attend the services freely and take part in the young people's meetings.

The town, being a collecting and distributing point for a number of the surrounding counties, has many business interests in addition to the handling of large quantities of coal and lumber. Two branch railroads lead to rich mining and timber districts.

PROGRESS.

In 1891 the institution passed under the control of the Central University. In 1897, thanks to the generosity of Mrs. S. P. Lees, Mrs. N. F. McCormick and other friends, great improvements were made in the building and equipment. The name was then changed to "The S. P. Lees Collegiate Institute."

The session of 1899-1900 brought other notable additions to the work, in the equipment by Mrs. McCormick of the departments of Manual Training and Domestic Science, the establishment of an electric light plant, the erection of the McCormick Chapel and the opening of the McCormick Free School. The session of 1900-1901 added an excellent chemical equipment, the gift of Mr. Stanley McCormick, and also through the aid of Mrs. McCormick a complete outfit of tables, stools and instruments for a thorough course in free-hand and mechanical drawing.

Material progress has been accompanied by steady growth in attendance and in influence, until the institute is now the most potent factor in the educational and moral life of the whole region. All but a very few of the nearly one hundred teachers of Breathitt county were educated within its walls.

The present session has been marked by great prosperity, almost equalling even the notable record of last year. The attendance, including that of the McCormick Chapel School, is over 400.

EQUIPMENT.

The main building is attractive and roomy. It contains a chapel with 400 individual seats, nine large recitation rooms, the manual training shop, an office, and a library, all opening on large halls. The shop is furnished with tools, lathes, drill, fret-saw, and forge, and electric lights for dark afternoons; the sewing room, with individual tables and sewing machines; the cooking room, with ample outfit of utensils and dishes. There is a dormitory for girls, lighted by electricity. This, in brief, constitutes the material equipment of the Institute.

The buildings are surrounded by grounds which afford opportunity for outdoor games.

ORGANIZATION.

1. The Academic Department, in Primary, Intermediate and Collegiate grades.
2. The Normal Department.
3. The Business Course.
4. The Department of Music.
5. The McCormick School of Manual Training and Domestic Science.
6. The McCormick Chapel Free School.
7. The Boarding Department.

HARDIN COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

HISTORY.

The Hardin Collegiate Institute of Elizabethtown was established in 1892 by the Central University of Kentucky as a high grade preparatory school for boys, but two years later it was deemed wise to offer the advantages of the school to girls also, and since then there has been about an equal number of each. A beautiful site of seven acres was secured just outside of the city limits, and a well appointed building, costing fifteen thousand dollars, was erected. The grounds and building were the result of the munificence of the people of Elizabethtown, who have ever been alive to the interest of the school, and are always kind and courteous to pupils from a distance. In 1901 the increasing patronage of the school rendered it necessary to build a dormitory for the boarding pupils; this hall, erected at a cost of four thousand dollars, is a model of convenience, and here the boarding pupils find as safe and comfortable a home as can be had at any similar institution in the State. The Institute, while doing a good work from the first, has during the past three years enjoyed a wider degree of usefulness and popularity than before. The school has been under its present management for four years, and it is gratifying to state that each year there has been a gain both in the number of pupils in attendance and in the work accomplished. The one aim of the school is to merit the esteem and confidence of its friends and patrons.

LOCATION.

Elizabethtown is the capital of one of the best counties of the State, and is favorably located on the L. & N. Railroad, forty-one miles south of Louisville.

EXPENSES.

The charges of the school have been made uniform, and are as low as in any similar school in the state; they are such as not to admit of any reduction. The entire expenses of pupils staying all the time will be $58.50 per term, or $117 per year, while those of pupils staying from Monday till Friday will be $45 per term, or $90 per year.

TABLE OF EXPENSES.

Tuition per term	$18 00
Board from Monday to Friday	1 50
Board for entire week	2 50
Elocution per month	3 00
Music per month	4 00

When tuition is paid by the week, it is reckoned at the rate of $1.15. The laboratory fee for students in chemistry is $5 each.

Board is payable at the end of each month; tuition, quarterly in advance.
